A better model for professional development.

Drawing on our worldwide success in workshops, we have developed a scalable professional development approach that can be tailored to the needs of your school. By empowering your teachers to direct their own learning, you can establish a vibrant culture of continual learning with options for every career stage.

Empower your educators

All IB Professional Development options give teachers the agency to define their own learning trajectory.

Build capabilities and practices

Teachers can learn IB capabilities that have been shown help improve student outcomes; or learn IB practices to develop their confidence and professional skills.

Provide diverse learning options

Teachers choose how they prefer to learn – from bite-sized microcontent and microlearning modules to self-paced courses, workshops, and tailored coaching.

Offer recognition

Give your teachers the option to earn evidence-based micro-credentials. Teachers appreciate the recognition and career boost, while your school benefits from seeing the real impact of your IB Professional Development investment.

The beauty of the IB is that it's a global education community. All schools around the world face the same challenges, enjoy the same benefits and can connect with one another through conferences, teacher training and the PYP exhibition.
