More convenient. More flexible. More you.

From stressful schedules to scarce resources, it's a tough time to be a teacher. That's why International Baccalaureate® (IB) Professional Development empowers teachers to decide how and when they learn, through practical, high-quality development that supports you at any stage of your career.

Build up your capabilities through flexible learning options, like self-paced courses or micro-credentials. Earn recognition and relevant accreditations that you can take with you, opening new career opportunities. And enjoy an immediate boost to your practice through relevant ready-to-use resources, online communities, and tailored coaching options.

How it works.

IB Professional Development lets you determine what, when, how, and how long you learn. With convenient ways to build your confidence, capabilities and career recognition, you can teach at your best and forge a more satisfying career.

It all starts with you

Enjoy the freedom and flexibility to define your continuing professional development journey and career trajectory.

Build your capabilities and practices

Start by choosing the capability or practice you would like to build. IB capabilities are research-backed competencies that help improve student outcomes, while IB practices are skills that can boost your confidence and professionalism.

Choose how you prefer to learn

Choose from bite-sized microcontent and microlearning modules to self-paced courses, workshops, and mentoring.

Gain recognition

Earn micro-credentials that you can take with you on your career by submitting evidence to demonstrate the impact of your learning in your classroom.

I'm gaining practical guidance, a lot of knowledge and useful tools that I can take away and implement. Beyond that expectation, I'm also gaining ideas about how to implement the Diploma Programme, and develop the school more broadly, which are above and beyond what I was hoping for.
